The Cayman Islands has recorded an additional four confirmed cases of COVID-19 taking the total to 12, with one additional sample still inconclusive.

The update was given by Chief Medical Officer Dr John Lee during Sunday's daily Government press briefing.

He said of 12 confirmed cases, notably they were between the ages of 21 and 83, pointing to the growing pattern that the virus was not limited to the persons in the upper age brackets.

Five of the confirmed samples are males and the other seven females. Four of them have had long term health conditions.

All but one of the cases was traced to persons classified as travellers.

To date, 194 cases have been confirmed negative out of 207 tests carried out.

Several persons remain under medical observation after showing or reporting flu-like symptoms consistent with COVID-19, in addition to those who have self-isolated having returned to the territory recently or in keeping with other preventive protocols.

Hon. Premier Alden McLaughlin emphasised that with these results, maintaining social distance had become even more important in suppressing the chances of the virus spreading in the community.

No Church but Plenty Faith

Churches in Grand Cayman have been finding innovative and contemporary ways to engage their congregations during the Covid 19, Government enforced lockdown, with many pastors turning to technology to get their message across.

Parishioners remain hopeful however that Church proceedings will be allowed in the community again soon.

Relaxing of the Government imposed 24 hour curfew which ran from Wednesday 25th March to Saturday 28th March in addition to supermarkets re-opening with special hours over the weekend, had given many in Grand Cayman a glimmer of hope regarding faith based gatherings and the potential for fellowship and worship at Churches around the Island.

However, during the last Government press-briefing - held on Friday,

HEALTH CITY REOPENS

Health City Cayman Islands, the Cayman Islands' sole tertiary medical care facility, is announcing its first phase of reopening starting from Friday, March 27 at 12pm.

The initial phase will entail the reopening of Emergency Services only by referral from other local health care facilities. This would include patients who require emergency treatment and critical care services.

COMMUNITY VOICE

Thank You From Mary Thompson

For the many efforts you, as our Government and Police Department have made in trying to keep the Cayman Islands as healthy as possible from the coronavirus, I want to say a big "Thank you" to everyone involved. I realize that this has taken many, many hours of your time and efforts for the safety of us all. Although we have had a few cases reported, we could expect that some would come to the Cayman Islands which have been very carefully taken care of.

We know that this will bring a lot of hardships on many people and not everything will please everyone but we know that if all people living here will respect the orders that are being made, it will be most helpful to all. As an 88-year-old citizen of the Cayman Islands, I much appreciate your efforts in looking out especially for us older folks, who have contributed much to the development of these islands. Not every country is showing that kind of love and respect and would rather leave the older citizens to get sick and die because they prefer to save the youths. Just think back on the noble old people of the past and all they contributed to society. If we watch the TV programs and hear reports of the youth of today, their interests and lifestyles show very little in wanting to better the world. Every person from every country should be treated fairly which, thankfully, we can see you're doing here in the Cayman Islands.

The Police Department deserves a lot of credit for their hard work doing the risky job that they have because not every citizen wants to show the respect that the police are due. I do appreciate the extra care that they are providing to us at this particular time. For many years I have known some of the same members of the police force and I want to give them special thanks for their faithfulness through many years of service.

The Cayman Islands is a Christian nation and I want to give my respect to all believers and I pray for the continued Christian standards. May God keep us all in His tender care and keep us faithful to His truth. Thank you for everything that you are doing.

kindest regards,
 Mary V. Thompson

PREMIER PREACHES FRUGALITY

"Alden can live off a couple of cans of corned beef and white rice for weeks!"

With that timely and unscripted response to a question posed by Caymanian Times Publisher and Editor-In-Chief Ralph Lewis, Premier Alden McLaughlin has reset the narrative of the challenge the territory faces as it strives to cope locally with the COVID-19 global crisis.

Frugality is the mantra.

This advice, both timely and necessary, should be taken on board seriously.

It's borne not just an innate survival instinct that has served these islands well as hurricane experiences can attest, but an inner fortitude that has underpinned a drive to rebuild - sometimes bigger - but always better.

"You know, we don't need to have ribs and steak and chicken every single day. Let's just calm down, think of this as a long hurricane that we are trying to get through," he counselled having lived the hurricane experience himself as others have done.

Mr McLaughlin was at the time addressing the matter of not just the economic pressure on the territory by the COVID-19 crisis, but the financial impact on individuals and families.

It was prompted by a question asking if residents abided by the current restrictions to suppress the spread of the coronavirus in Cayman, would the government consider lifting the restrictions after seven days, given the financial pressure some people are already facing?

The Premier has expressed concern, that after initially complying with the regulations there were indications, much to his displeasure, that some people were abusing them.

He acknowledged being mindful of the financial hardships being faced by some persons, but said that at this stage it would be inadvisable to exit early from the Stay Home Cayman and Shelter-In-Place procedures.

"Not enough time would have expired based on the advice we have in terms of public health for us to be certain that the virus is still not lingering in the community."

On the direct issue of financial hardship, Mr McLaughlin demonstrated that he was indeed acutely aware of the financial pressures on individuals and families, as well as the impact on the economy resulting from policies adopted and actions taken by his government to fight back against COVID-19.

"We are not at all unsympathetic to the financial woes (and) the economic woes that this is causing.

► Hon. Premier Alden McLaughlin

"In addition to what has been happening globally, we know we have crashed the economy," he admitted.

The Cayman Islands has been running a healthy surplus due to what the government has credited as its strict financial discipline.

Mr McLaughlin has estimated that this could tide the territory over for at least the next three to four months.

What comes after is the challenge for both government and households.

If the crisis persists, especially due to people not complying with the restrictions in place, the knock-on economic effects could be even more severe, he has warned.

However, the Premier has this solemn advice for his fellow citizens.

"Just let me say this," he intones with a sense of disquieting urgency.

"We can rebuild the economy, but the only person reputed to have been able to be raised (from) the dead was Jesus Christ himself. We cannot bring back lives."

Advising people to be frugal with their spending in this period of crisis facing the country, Premier McLaughlin observed:

"When I see the amount of panic buying that is going on, I ask myself; if people spend up all of their money what about the week after, and the week after?"

"Even when the curfew is lifted, the economy is not going to bounce back miraculously," he cautioned.

"Look at what's happening all around us. People need to hoard what money they have. Eat frugally. Sparingly."

And that brings us back to two of the Premier most memorable and sage quotes on this issue.

"Alden can live off a couple of cans of corned beef and white rice for weeks!"

"You know, we don't need to have ribs and steak and chicken every single day. Let's just calm down, think of this as a long hurricane that we are trying to get through."

The Premier has a point. Well, two to be precise.

PREMIER REPRIMANDS LOCKDOWN VIOLATORS

In his toughest reprimand yet, Hon. Premier Alden McLaughlin has severely chastised persons who persist in flaunting the conditions set down in the curfew that Cayman is currently under.

The territory has been placed in alternating hard nighttime curfew and soft daytime restrictions as part of intensified global efforts to halt the spread of the highly infectious and deadly coronavirus COVID-19.

A Shelter-in-Place/Stay Home Cayman drive is now in place.

Speaking at the end of the first three-day 24/7 lockdown, Premier McLaughlin praised those who have been cooperating but did not mince words for the violators.

The government had enforced a full lockdown after a number of violations of the overnight curfew, safe-distancing and a flood of requests by businesses seeking to be classified as essential services - in many cases for all of their employees and not just key staff.

"It is clear to us that we are going to have to have very different kinds of behaviours than we are used to, for quite some time than we are used to until this crisis ends," Premier McLaughlin said.

And he issued this warning: "If we don't get the cooperation of the public, unfortunately, as happens far too often, the innocent will have to suffer with the guilty."

Crowds at the beaches, people driving around aimlessly, out and about without adequate reason, and not keeping the safe distance advice have been some of the challenges faced by police, despite the public in most cases adhering to the protocols.

In his overview of the current situation, he noted that in order for soft (daytime 5am to 7pm) curfew to work, the Premier said "all must practice common sense."

Contrasting developments on Saturday with the previous days where he said he was happy with the response of the public, Mr McLaughlin expressed concern about the long queues at supermarkets where social-distancing was not being observed.

He said that system might need to be reviewed.

There are also concerns about some people flocking to the beaches.

"Moving about freely is a significant abuse of the privilege to move around granted by the soft curfew provisions. Hundreds sunbathing is not the plan and is not going to work."

Mr McLaughlin went to state that, "People need to understand that this irresponsible behaviour, this selfish behaviour quite frankly, means that you for the government to become more and more restrictive to get it to a position where we can actually enforce the rules."

"I appeal again for people to be reasonable, exercise common sense, and to follow the rules, otherwise you make life harder for all of the people around you," he advised.

On the likelihood that the curfew could be further tightened of compliance is not improved, he said: "Let's work through the next week and see where we get to."

Of eight confirmed COVID-19 cases - with a possible ninth being reviewed - there's been only been one death; a cruise ship passenger taken to Health City Cayman with a cardiac complaint who was subsequently found to have had the virus before he was disembarked here.

Another patient who went from Cayman to Honduras where he passed away, died of causes not linked to COVID-19.

"I don't want one single one of my people, and I'm including those who reside here who are not Cayman nationals, to die of this disease in Cayman. That's what we are aiming for," Premier McLaughlin said in appealing to the public to abide by the new 'Stay Home Cayman' initiative.

"Come on folks, let's do this together," he urged.

DES Announces Changes to External Exams Due to COVID-19

The Department of Education Services (DES) has announced a number of changes made to external examinations scheduled for this year for secondary-level students. While the City and Guilds examinations currently remain on schedule, examinations previously scheduled by Cambridge, AQA, WJEC and Pearson are all cancelled as indicated by their respective boards. Examination centres are awaiting the process for awarding grades for the above mentioned exams. Further to a regional press release issued by the Caribbean Examination Council (CXC) on 26 March, a number of changes have also been announced in relation to the May/June 2020 examinations schedule for CXC.

The following key points should be noted with regard to the examinations process:

- CXC has revised the exams schedule to July 2020
- CXC continues to be guided by the protocols set by the governments in the region
- In person or on-site moderation across all practical subjects is suspended until further notice
- Paper 1 for all exams will be delivered electronically, and the results will be used in conjunction with School Based Assessments (SBAs) to provide students with an assessed grade. The exceptions to this are Modern Languages, Visual Arts and Human and Social Biology
- Completion of SBA practicals have been rescheduled and schools will be advised of the revised deadline for submission

• Online resources geared towards exam preparation are available at learninghub.cxc.org; in addition, DES and the Ministry of Education are working with FLOW and One on One Educational Services Ltd in Jamaica, to provide access to additional content

In addition to the new measures for CXC exams, secondary school graduation dates will be rescheduled to ensure final exam grade reports are taken into consideration and recognized.

"Without question it is extremely unfortunate that several of our locally administered, external exams have been cancelled. From the onset of the drastic upset to all our lives, we have been actively engaged in fact-finding activities and discussions with the various examination bodies.

This includes meetings facilitated by CXC which included other Ministries of Education across the region, to deliberate the best scenario for our students as it relates to the administration of examinations. While the changes CXC has implemented are different and may cause inconvenience, the takeaway is that examinations are still going ahead. In moving forward, DES staff, principals and teachers will continue their hard work to collaboratively adapt and make provisions to limit further disruption to our student's education, whilst prioritizing their health and safety in line with the current protocols," advised DES Acting Director, Tammy Banks-DaCosta.

Government secondary school leaders also shared their sentiments to the affected students.

"This has been an unprecedented year. We all need to continue to work in the best interest of our community. This is not an easy situation for all our students and especially, Year 11 students. None the less we will find ways to support them and maintain our positivity. The extended date for SBAs means that this must still be a priority and they must not stop working. The Paper 1 multiple choice paper being completed electronically can be managed. We have already trialed this and have completed exam work for CXC over the past two years," assured Jon Clark, Principal of John Gray High.

"Understandably our students may be anxious about external examinations and the changes proposed, we encourage you to remain focused and positive, you have been taught to be resilient and to demonstrate a growth mindset, this is the time to tap into your inner resolve and press on. Your parents and teachers are with you, guiding you towards the best outcomes. Finally, see each new day as one filled with God's new mercies. Rest assured our teachers will continue to actively engage with our students every day using the different distance learning modes," expressed Dr. Richard Wildman, Principal of Clifton Hunter High.

"We are cognizant of the anxieties surrounding the way forward. Students be reassured in knowing that teachers, parents and the entire education fraternity are working to ensure continuity of your education journey. The provisions are in place to assist all our students with preparations for the scheduled external examinations. In this time utilize what works best for you, stay on top by being organized and most importantly, take the very best care of your mental health and well-being in these challenging times," added Devon Bowen, Acting Principal for Layman E. Scott High.

Delores Thompson, Director of Cayman Islands Further Education Centre (CIFEC) also shared some encouraging words, "At the beginning of the school year we shared with you that the biggest determinant of a person's success isn't IQ, family structure, income or participation in extra curricula activities. It is GRIT! Now is the time to demonstrate that GRIT. Team CIFEC, we've got this! Stay engaged with your teachers, keep working and reach out to us if you need anything. We are praying for you, we love you and together, with GRIT, we are going to get through this!"

Schools will continue to provide more to details to parents and students. The Ministry of Education continues in its commitment to keep schools, parents and students informed.

27th March, the Cayman Islands Premier, the Honorable Alden McLaughlin pointed out that due to the current guidelines regarding gatherings being kept to a minimum of two persons, this would not be possible.

He instead, encouraged churches to pursue fellowship using online mediums: "Many of churches have been gathering online. It just means that they can't gather together in a physical building or room for the physical purpose of worship," noted the Premier.

Mr. McLaughlin also ruled out a National Day of Prayer in the usuals sense due to the restrictions on gatherings. However, he added that such prayer services could be held over the radio, on television or otherwise.

In response to a question by Caymanian Times' Publisher and Editor, Mr. Ralph Lewis, Health Minister, the Honorable Dwayne Seymour indicated that he would be happy to invite a pastor to the press briefings if the Premier would allow him to do so.

"So far I have been doing the prayers and I haven't run out of prayers but I think we could take someone well trained to come up and give the nation some calm".

Online there has been an outpouring of faith based initiatives and the Caymanian Times managed to catch up with Pastor Felix Manzanares of Journey Ministries Cayman, who has been using platforms such as zoom (a remote conferencing services company, which combines video conferencing, online meetings, chat, and mobile collaboration), as well as Facebook to reach persons in the community.

Mr. Manzanares explained that the the Church has a unique ability to thrive in challenging times.

"I love what I see happening in the body of Christ because traditionally there has been a focus on the buildings but now we are building the Church instead. We are really understanding what means to love our neighbor and things like spending time with family have become a priority," he noted.

The Minister added that the Church has to be a part of the solution at this time.

"It is important for us to not just show what we are against as people of God but also what we are for and it that spirit it is important to honor and partner with the government in prayer and in practice.

"This crisis has challenged the ministry and leaders everywhere to be innovative and tap into technology. It is a bright time for the Church to be inclusive and build that love and connection with people and really be shepherds."

Journey Ministries has been building an online presence for four years and had already been having online worship during that time. The Church is currently hosting 12 nights of prayer online from 8.30pm to 9.30pm, using Zoom from their Facebook page "I Am Online Gathering".

"We've always used this forum. In fact, a recent conference that was scheduled and had to be cancelled was held online. We managed to still have the workshop, people paid and the speaker was able to bless the congregation," noted Pastor Manzanares.

Another Pastor who is using the wonder of modern technology is Pastor Alston Ebanks of the Church of God, who has been delivering messages via Facebook Live, in addition to producing audio-visual faith based content to uplift the community.

His most recent piece has had a huge impact, reaching many people, who have been sharing it on WhatsApp and Facebook for inspiration.

The Cayman Islands have always had a strong Christian tradition and this time of crisis has been bringing out a renewed ardency among believers.

Residents are encouraged to pay attention to the government's press briefings for information regarding opening times for churches going forward. 🌐

Cayman Food Bank Provides COVID-19 Response

The Cayman Food Bank is a nonprofit organization with a clear mission that aims to "mitigate island-wide hunger, by providing access to healthy food." While we cater to N.A.U. families, domestic abuse survivors and seniors, our key area of focus is to eliminate childhood hunger.

In light of this global pandemic, the Cayman Food Bank has formed a Covid-19 Response Team to combat the widespread hunger that is currently plaguing our society. On Saturday 28 March 2020, the Covid-19 Response Team partnered with the First Assembly of God church on Old Crewe Road to provide over 120 bags of groceries to families and individuals. Families came to the First Assembly of God church from many areas of the island, including Windsor Park and Prospect. The Cayman Food Bank's Covid-19 Response Team employed proper protocols, including physical distancing and the use of hand sanitizers during the grocery packing and delivery processes.

The Cayman Food Bank wishes to publicly thank its volunteers for their involvement and continues to actively seek donations from organizations as well as individuals to provide to the vulnerable children, adults and seniors. Unfortunately, the number of vulnerable persons has increased due to the pandemic, leaving our pantries empty. As such, donations are now urgently needed.

Donations can be made in person to either of the below locations:

1. Rosedale Warehouse, Unit 11, 51 Sleepy Hollow Drive (across from Progressive Distributors near CUC)
2. First Assembly of God, 195 Old Crewe Road (across from the roundabout by King's Gym)

Alternatively, donors may contact Phillip Hyre at 926-6111 or phillip@caymanfoodbank.com.

Monetary donations can also be made using the following details:

Supermarkets welcomed Shoppers on Saturday

After the "around-the-clock" curfew of the past three days, supermarkets and a limited number of establishments (including pharmacies and gas stations) re-opened today, Saturday 28 March. This in line with the Attorney General's regulations outlined at Friday's press conference (see below for details).

Shoppers were seen getting in line as early as 6.30 am as they waited for their turn to enter the supermarket. According to a security officer on the scene, customers arrived as early as 5.30 am to start their grocery shopping, RCIPS will be working alongside supermarkets and their private security companies to ensure the safe flow of traffic, a smooth flow for customers, as well as the prioritisation and protection of vulnerable individuals. In support of Saturday's efforts, RCIPS Commissioner Derek Byrne issued a statement to news media, accompanied by a video for social media and a message on Radio Cayman.

Commissioner Byrne stated: "The RCIPS is working in partnership with the supermarkets and retailers to deploy extra uniform patrols at various supermarket locations around the island on Saturday March 28th to create a more positive and safe environment for persons to move around and conduct their business all in compliance with the new Public Health Regulations passed on Friday March 27th.

"Please be assured that the major retailers are well stocked to meet the demands of the community. We remind all members of the community that we are operating in a soft curfew period between 5:01 a.m. and 7:00 p.m. each day for the next 10 days starting Saturday March 28th. Hard curfew from 7:00 p.m. each night continues as previously advised.

"The RCIPS is out to assist and provide public reassurance during this extremely challenging period. We thank the community for their cooperation and continued support as we work through this difficult period to contain COVID19."

Mr. Byrne references new regulations that were passed on Friday, 27 March - the Public Health (Prevention, Control and Suppression of COVID-19) Regulations, 2020 which are available online at <http://www.gov.ky/coronavirus>. The aim of these measures is to ensure that community spread of COVID-19 within the Cayman Islands is thwarted for the longest possible time. (Community spread means patients have no travel history and no contact with persons that do.)

Regulations are available at: <http://www.gov.ky/portal/pls/portal/docs/1/12940549.PDF>

For information on various retail establishments, including banks and pharmacies, the Cayman Islands Chamber of Commerce has launched a new website - <http://chambercovidupdates.ky>

Going forward, this website will be updated daily in line with the private sector response to government's announcements and changes in policy.

Supermarket hours in the curfew period are as follows:

- Cost-u-Less 8AM-6PM, Monday through Saturday. Dedicated shopping hour for vulnerable: 7AM to 8AM
- Fosters 6AM-6PM, Monday through Saturday. Dedicated shopping hour for vulnerable: 6AM-7AM
- Hurlleys 9AM - 6PM for the general public. Dedicated shopping for elderly/vulnerable, HSA staff and first responders: 7AM- 9AM
- Kirk Market 6AM-6PM, Monday-Saturday, for the duration of the curfew. Dedicated shopping lanes for elderly/vulnerable individuals

Even though the parking lots were filled and the lines were increasingly long, the customers were well behaved and waited patiently at the time of reporting. 🌐

UCCI transitions to online teaching and learning

Monday, March 30 will mark two weeks since the University College of the Cayman Islands (UCCI) transitioned to online teaching and learning as part of the university's contingency plan to minimise the risk of transmitting COVID-19, the novel coronavirus, to its students, faculty and staff and the greater community.

UCCI's campuses are closed but its faculty and administrative staff are fully operational, remotely, from their homes. Classes and teaching continue online following the current semester calendar. Regular business hours are being maintained remotely for both the Grand Cayman and Cayman Brac campuses during the school closure period, which is scheduled to end on Monday, April 27 with clearance from the Cayman Islands Government.

Faculty members have contacted UCCI's student body to discuss the teaching and learning options for each course, allowing students to successfully complete the semester. Several different online platforms are allowing instructors to engage with students in an interactive digital forum such as Microsoft Teams and Skype for Business complemented with the use of the learning management system, Blackboard. The complete list of UCCI online courses and class hours for the current Spring 2020 schedule can be found on our website: <https://www.ucci.edu.ky/current-students/schedule-classes>.

The school closure, along with other measures taken in the community to prevent the spread of the virus, has impacted students across the Cayman Islands. University officials are actively monitoring developments regarding secondary school examinations and planning for virtual enrolment and other online support services for prospective students for both the Summer and Fall 2020 semesters should that be necessary. The university's new online application portal is now live and can be found here: <https://connect.ucci.edu.ky/apply/>.

► UCCI student remote learning

As of today, Summer 2020 registration is scheduled to start on Monday, April 6, with classes beginning Monday, May 11. These courses may be delivered via a method other than in-person instruction, including online platforms. A final determination of the delivery method for summer courses will be made by Monday, May 4.

Decisions regarding courses that cannot be delivered online, or that are to be cancelled, will be communicated to students who enrol in those courses. Students should continue to monitor the university's website (<https://www.ucci.edu.ky/>) and their UCCI email accounts for updates.

Teaching and learning via the internet can present unique challenges to students and faculty. Information and resources found in UCCI's COVID-19 response plan can help clarify any uncertainty and support the university to keep moving towards its goal to guarantee a successful transition and successful student outcome. Visit UCCI's COVID-19 FAQs at <https://www.ucci.edu.ky/covid-19>.

UCCI's regular business hours will continue to apply as the campus operates remotely: 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Friday. To contact UCCI, persons can email info@ucci.edu.ky or call 1-345-623-8224. Attorney General Shares COVID 19 Regulations

Place procedures that will govern new, softer curfew provisions announced by Premier, Hon. Alden McLaughlin.

The new provisions are titled The Public Health (Prevention, Control and Suppression of COVID-19) Regulations, 2020.

The Attorney General noted that:

- Gatherings, parties and events such as conferences and concerts involving more than two persons are not allowed.
- From 5.00 am Saturday, 28 March 2020 for a period of 10 Days, the shelter in place order is in effect and applies to all three Cayman Islands; this might be extended if deemed necessary.
- Although movement will be allowed for essential purposes, shelter at home still requires everyone to remain at home, or in their yard space.
- Breaches, upon conviction, will attract a $1,000 fine and imprisonment of six months.
- However, Government recognises that individuals need access to essential services, and that essential operations across the Islands must continue to function. Therefore the new regulations allows for necessary exemptions to the Shelter in Place requirement.

The Attorney General explained that the exemptions are broken down into categories A, B and C.

- Category A outlines "essential service providers or persons who are designated to carry out certain activities or duties only when acting in the course of their duties." These include police officers and other law enforcement personnel, sanitation workers, utility, banks, supermarkets, health care workers, media personnel, water and cooking gas delivery personnel, taxi drivers, security services personnel and food deliverers who specifically have a time limit of up to 9 pm. Also persons picking up takeaway food may do so until 6 pm.
- Category B covers exemptions for individuals exercising or walking their dogs for a maximum of 1.5 hours, provided they can maintain a distance of six feet from another person. Public or private strata pools or gyms cannot be used.

• Category C provides for restrictions on other activities and operations such as holding strata pool parties or sailing on pleasure boats.

Also exempt are electricians, plumbers or roof repairers who have to perform urgent repairs at clients' places of residence.

Wedding ceremonies should have 10 persons other than the bride, bridegroom, official witnesses and the marriage officer. Funerals should have no more than 10 members of the immediate family, six pallbearers, at least one officiant and essential mortuary staff.

The Attorney General emphasised that even essential staff are allowed to be out and about only to perform their duties; they cannot generally be out and about for their private reasons.

HEALTH CITY CAYMAN ISLANDS REOPENS FOR EMERGENCY AND CRITICAL CARE REFERRALS ONLY

All other services will remain closed during the initial phase, including Outpatient Services and all elective procedures.

Clinical Director Dr. Binoy Chattuparambil said, "As the Cayman Islands' sole tertiary care facility, it is imperative that we open as soon as possible in order to support the emergency health care needs of the local population. However, we would not reopen unless we were fully confident that potential transmission of the COVID-19 virus has been suppressed. We are reassured by the most recent test results announced by Chief Medical Officer Dr. John Lee on Friday, March 27. We stand ready to assist in the treatment of emergency and critical cases as needed. We will announce subsequent phases of our reopening in due course. We stand committed to acting in the best interests of the health of the Cayman Islands community."

To facilitate the reopening of emergency services and critical care, one wing of the hospital has been physically segregated and assigned exclusively only for the isolation of suspected or COVID-19 positive patients.

Another wing of the hospital will be used only for newly admitted emergency patients. The newly admitted emergency patients will not have any contact with the existing patients of the hospital or the staff taking care of them.

The staff taking care of the new emergency admissions are also physically segregated from those staff members taking care of the existing patients.

Commenting on the need for these measures, Dr. Chattuparambil said, "We now, and for the immediate future, live in a COVID-19 world and we must prepare just as we would if we knew a patient was potentially COVID-19 positive."

HSA expands flu clinic to new location

With increasing incidences of flu being reported in the Cayman Islands the Health Services Authority has expanded its flu clinic on the main Hospital campus with a dedicated unit to treat patients with flu moderate to severe symptoms and help mitigate the spread of the virus in other clinic settings.

Medical Officer of Health, Dr Williams recommended that persons first make contact via the 24 hour Flu Hotline at 1-800-534-8600 or 947-3077 or email flu@hsa.ky as initial triage before coming into the Flu Clinic.

Medical Officer of Health, Dr. Samuel Williams says the high number of influenza like cases emerging in recent weeks has resulted in an increase of patients entering the emergency room and general practice clinic. "We saw approximately 300 cases of respiratory tract infections reported within the last two weeks in February so the need is still there."

The dedicated Flu Clinic is located in the space previously occupied by the Outpatient Mental Health Unit, on the side of the hospital facing the Seventh Day Adventist Church, to the far left of A&E. Signage on the hospital campus will direct patients to the Clinic, which will be open Monday to Friday from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. All persons at the flu clinic will be required to wear a facemask to prevent the spread of flu.

If you have flu symptoms and have traveled within the last 2 weeks please stay at home and contact your healthcare provider or the Flu Hotline. Callers will speak with a health professional about their symptoms, be screened for travel history, etc and will be advised on what they should do e.g. come to the Flu Clinic, stay home in isolation.

Dr. Williams says that most people with the flu have mild to moderate symptoms and will recover within about a week without medical treatment. Persons are reminded to rest, take over-the-counter medications and drink plenty of fluids to stay hydrated. Pregnant women and those with underlying health conditions should call the hotline or their primary care doctor at the first sign of flu symptoms.

Flu symptoms may include:

- Fever
- Sore throat
- Cough
- Runny nose
- Muscle or body aches
- Chills

If you experience worsening symptoms such as:

- Sudden dizziness and confusion;
 - Severe or persistent vomiting;
 - Pain or pressure in the chest or abdomen; or,
 - Difficulty breathing
- call the Flu hotline or 911.

To help avoid the spread of germs and reduce the risk of contracting viruses, it is essential to practice the following:

- Wash your hands with soap and water (hand sanitizer if a sink with soap and water is not available).
- Don't touch your face unless you have washed your hands, as that is how the virus gets into your body.
- Cough and sneeze into a tissue and then throw it away, or cough and sneeze into your bent elbow.
- Stay 3 -6 feet away from sick persons with respiratory symptoms.

Patients visiting the flu clinic can use the Seventh Day Adventist Church parking lot, just opposite A&E.

of collecting food, until no later than 6:00 pm;

- civil servants as designated by the Portfolio of the Civil Service;
 - charities and other persons engaged in the delivery of food or groceries, as designated by the Competent Authority;
 - persons who have to undertake essential travel to any of the following 5 types of facilities:
 - i) health-care facilities for emergency purposes;
 - ii) supermarkets, convenience stores, mini-marts and pharmacies between the hours of 6 a.m. – 6 p.m. Convenience stores and mini-marts will also be subject to the further restriction of no more than six customers inside at any given time;
 - iii) retail banks, credit unions and building societies between the hours of 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.;
 - iv) gas or refilling stations between the hours of 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.; or
 - v) such other public places as may be specified by the Competent Authority (that is, the Ministry of International Trade). Businesses wishing to apply for an exemption under one of the appropriate categories should email curfewtime@gov.ky.
- Also exempt are:
- members of an essential service or an essential services provider designated by the Ministry of International Trade after consultation with the Hazard Management Department of the Cayman Islands, for the purposes of performing their employment duties; and
 - other persons involved in other businesses that are designated.

Category B – Exercise or pet walking

Persons may also leave their places of abode or residence for no more than 1 ½ hours per day to engage in exercise in a public place or to walk their pet, PROVIDED that they maintain a distance of at least 6 feet or 2 meters from another person.

The public is reminded, however, that even though exercise and pet-walking are allowed, persons are still not allowed to go to public gyms or pools, or private strata gyms or pools.

Category C – Restrictions on other activities and operations

Activities such as:

- i) having private parties, which include persons from outside the immediate household of the house occupant (and this includes parties held in or around a private strata pool; and
 - ii) hiring, or travelling on a boat sailing inter-island (otherwise than for transport of freight), are NOT allowed.
- However, persons involved in the following activities will be exempt from the Shelter in Place requirement:
1. Persons who have to perform urgent home plumbing, electrical or roof repairs (for example, answering an emergency call for such services);
 2. Persons who host or attend a wedding which has NO MORE than 10 persons other than the bride, bridegroom, official witnesses and the marriage officer; and
 3. Persons who host or attend a funeral which has NO MORE than 10 members of the immediate family, six pallbearers, at least one officiant and essential mortuary staff.

Conclusion

Persons are reminded to practice social distancing by maintaining a distance of at least 6 feet or 2 meters from any other person, no matter where they are. It is only in so doing that they can reduce the further spread of this virus.

Persons are also reminded that with the exception of those that are exempted, all establishments, institutions, businesses, organizations and offices shall be closed but, if the employers so require, their employees shall work remotely from home.

As a reminder to all persons employed within the public service, unless they are specifically designated as an essential worker, they must work remotely from home.

The public is reminded that during this time, for the purposes of ensuring persons abide with the Shelter in Place requirements, a police officer may require a person to answer any questions to enable the police officer to ascertain who the person is and whether he or she is an exempted person.

Where the person does not satisfy the police officer that the person falls within the exempted categories, the police officer may direct the person to go immediately to the person's place of abode or place of residence.

A police officer may also use reasonable force, if necessary, in the exercise of this power.

However, it will not fall to the Police alone to enforce the Regulations. Indeed, the Government expects that this will be largely an honour system whereby persons appreciate the imperatives involved, act responsibly and exercise good judgment.

Sidebar: A sample of the letter that is provided by the Ministry of International Trade, Investment, Aviation and Maritime Affairs official to employers in relation to their exempted employees is given below.

Essential Services Continue During Coronavirus

The national response to COVID-19 has required everyone to adapt their ways of working, including those of the essential services the public rely on to keep them safe.

GIS MARKETING & COMMUNICATIONS
CAYMAN ISLANDS GOVERNMENT

The Department of Public Safety Communication (DPSC), Cayman Islands Fire Service (CIFS) and Her Majesty's Cayman Islands Prison Service (HMCIPS) continue to offer their world-class service 24 hours a day, albeit under adjusted conditions.

"The primary focus for all our essential agencies remains to be the safety of everyone across the Cayman Islands. Each agency has well-versed business continuity plans and are working closely as a public safety community to continue operations during these difficult times," commented the Minister for Financial Services and Home Affairs, Hon. Tara Rivers, JP.

In an emergency, DPSC reminds residents to inform the 911 operator if anyone at the incident has coronavirus symptoms and/or is self-isolating. This crucial information will help to minimize disruption to the public safety operations and protect first responding staff.

Since 7 March, DPSC has received 123 calls from the public relating to coronavirus.

The Director of Public Safety Communications, Julian Lewis, said, "DPSC employees are dedicated professionals who contribute to public safety every single day. Our well-practiced business continuity plan ensures an uninterrupted public safety answer point for all three islands. We are in constant contact with our emergency service partners to see this plan is a success to handle and mobilise an efficient and swift professional operational response to all incident types."

CIFS has supplies of personal protective equipment and enhanced operational control measures in place to keep firefighters safe and able to continue to protect the community.

Chief Fire Officer, Paul Walker QFSM, stated, "I would like to offer my assurance to the residents of the Cayman Islands that CIFS will continue to respond to their needs and maintain a 24 hour, 7 days a week fire and rescue service throughout the challenging times ahead. We are working with our emergency service partners to provide a swift and professional operational response to all incident types."

In response to the current COVID-19 concerns, HMCIPS has taken steps to mitigate the likelihood of transmission in prisons. In addition to following the health advice of public health officials, HMCIPS has implemented restrictions to the numbers of visitors, volunteers and service providers that enter. New systems are in place to enable family contact to continue instead of face-to-face contact.

The Director of Prisons, Steve Barrett stated, "I would like to take this opportunity to assure residents that public protection and the rehabilitation of offenders remains our core function, in spite of the exceptional community health circumstances we are facing. We are taking all of the steps we can to ensure that those in our custody and our staffing group are protected. This is a time where the prison community needs to exercise a shared responsibility to look after one another and that is what we are working to do."

DPSC, CIFS and HMCIPS are part of the National Emergency Operations Centre and the broader robust response to the coronavirus taken by the Cayman Islands Government.

Department of Children and Family Services (DCFS) staff will work remotely from home starting on Wednesday, 25 March 2020. The new arrangement is in keeping with Government procedures to limit the impact of coronavirus throughout the Cayman Islands.

During this time the department's dedicated social work and administrative staff will provide critical services. These services can be accessed via an on-call system through dcfs@gov.ky. Critical services include child protection work undertaken by the Multi-Agency Safeguarding Hub (M.A.S.H), which can be contacted on 1-800-534-2273/945-0545 and

Athletes relieved that Olympics is delayed

The postponement of the Tokyo Olympics by a year has been universally applauded by officials, athletes and coaches. Many who would have competed in Japan at the end of July had already missed around a month of quality training because of the disruption caused by the pandemic coronavirus outbreak. Many athletes train in different locations from where they live and are still struggling to get home because of the disruption of cancelled and rearranged flights.

The postponement makes sense as qualifying events had already been cancelled so it made it impossible for the best athletes to be chosen and be in peak form for the Games. Many were finding it difficult or inadequate to simply train indoors.

The postponement came after talks between Japan's prime minister, Shin-

► Alistair Brownlee is glad that the Games are postponed

zo Abe, and the International Olympic Committee president, Thomas Bach.

Abe said they had established that cancelling the Games was out of the question, and that Bach had agreed "100 percent" that a postponement was the most appropriate response to the global disruption.

Alistair Brownlee, double Olympic triathlon champion said: "Evidently a very tough decision for the IOC and other stakeholders to make but in my opinion the right one. Both, for the message it sends to people around the world battling with the virus and to give clarity to athletes attempting to prepare."

Callum Skinner, retired cycling team sprint Olympic champion, who fronts competitor-led movement Global Athlete, said: "The right decision has been made. Tokyo 2021 presents an amazing opportunity to host a full Games celebrating the world (hopefully) entering the "post-pandemic" phase."

Paralympian Kadeena Cox, cycling and athletics champion, said: "The right choice. Health before everything. Let's all stick together through these tough times and when the time is right, we can enjoy the Games and its legacy."

The delay gives marathon king Eliud Kipchoge extra time to prepare although he will be 36 by next year. When the brilliant Kenyan broke the two-hour barrier for the marathon in October 2019, he did not run alone, but now, as a diary he is recording reveals, he has no choice.

The Rio Olympic champion may be the only man to have broken two hours over 26.2 miles but when he set the time in Vienna, he ran with a cadre of pacemakers.

► Eliud Kipchoge must defend his Olympic marathon title next year

Now, as the first entries of "Eliud Kipchoge's Isolation Diary" makes clear, he is experiencing the loneliness of the long-distance runner.

The diary, recorded for the BBC, opens with the Kenyan rising from a kitchen chair with his tracksuit and running shoes on. He gives commentary of how he is training solo day by day.

The Olympic Games and Paralympic Games will continue to be called the "Olympic and Paralympic Games Tokyo 2020" even if they are held next year.

Tokyo 2020's fate was in effect sealed this week when Canada and Australia said they would not send athletes to Japan in July, while the British and French governments urged the IOC to make a quick decision.

The US Olympic and Paralympic committee followed suit, citing the "enormous" disruption the pandemic had caused to training and the qualification process. World Athletics, the Olympic committees of Brazil, Slovenia and Germany, USA Swimming and USA Track and Field had joined the growing chorus of calls for a new date for the event.

The postponement is a blow to the host country, which has spent more than $12bn on the event, while huge sums are also at stake for sponsors and broadcasters. Goldman Sachs estimated that Japan would lose $4.5bn in inbound and domestic consumption in 2020 if the Olympics did not take place as planned.

The Games have never been postponed in this way, but they were cancelled in 1916, 1940 – also a planned Tokyo Games – and 1944, during the first and second world wars. 🌐

UFC plans closed show for next month

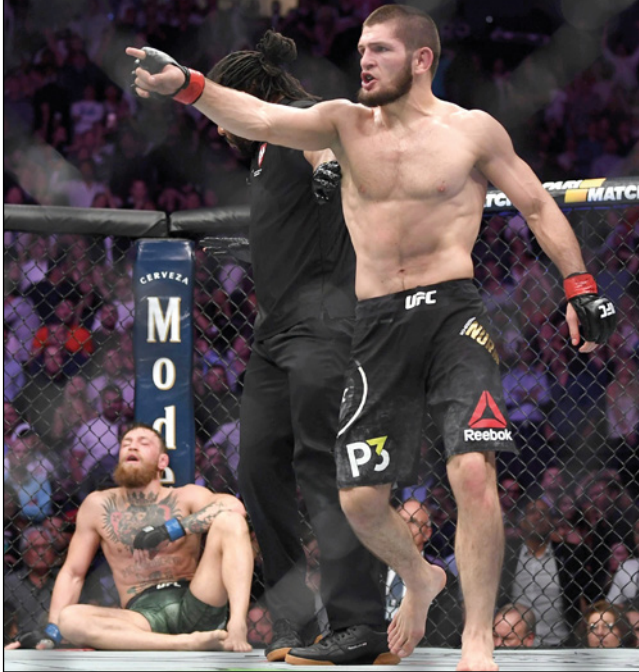

Professional sport has been shut down worldwide, but the UFC is bullish about returning in a matter of weeks.

UFC 249, featuring Khabib Nurmagomedov against Tony Ferguson as the main event, has been closed to the public, UFC President Dana White confirmed Monday.

He hasn't got a venue yet but admits: "There's not going to be any fans there. It's going to be a closed event."

White also said that the location is "99.9 percent done". Plans for the April 18 bouts had been in question since the coronavirus pandemic caused the cancellations or postponements of major sports leagues and tournaments worldwide.

Ahead of UFC Fight Night 170 on March 14 in Brazil, White made the con-

Decision on CPL is still on hold

West Indies Cricket has dismissed speculation about the cancellation of the Caribbean Premier League 2020 edition. The CPL organisers believe it is too early to make such a decision, but admit it is an evolving situation and they are carefully watching how events unfold in the Caribbean and worldwide. It is scheduled to run from Aug. 19 to Sept. 26.

First started in 2013, the Caribbean Premier League had a combined broadcast and digital viewership of 312 million last season to make it one of the fastest growing leagues in world cricket. In 2019 the tournament made a positive economic impact across the Caribbean of US$136 million. 🌐

NBA restart will be problematic

The NBA went on hiatus March 11, and if there was any concern the league acted too hastily, the rapid spread of the coronavirus throughout the Los Angeles Lakers, Boston Celtics, Brooklyn Nets, Utah Jazz, Detroit Pistons and many others relieved any doubt.

Very quickly, the NBA went from full attendance to considering games without spectators to fully shut down. It was undoubtedly a difficult decision, but no more games were not difficult to execute.

The real challenge will be starting back up. When will that be a serious consideration, and what will that look like? NBA Commissioner Adam Silver admitted he is not sure. There have been tentative talks of matches without spectators but even that is unfeasible because it would involve a minimum of 50 people in attendance. One transmission, even to a non-player, and the league shuts down again.

Multiply the risk to 29 arenas (with the Clippers and Lakers sharing Staples Center) and the travel involved. Can the league isolate and quarantine that much personnel?

Then there's the logistical nightmare of rescheduling games. The league is staring down at least $1 billion in losses as things stand.

To alleviate the complications, perhaps a neutral site would make more sense for the league. Bring the entire NBA to Las Vegas, where they have T-Mobile Arena and the nearby facilities at UNLV's Thomas & Mack Center. The city certainly has the hotel capacity with casinos currently closed.

Whatever income is lost by the league, roughly 50 percent will be passed on to the players. That loss will undoubtedly impact next year's salary cap, which was last projected by the NBA to reach $115 million.

Pushing back the conclusion of the current campaign could delay the start of next season. Perhaps now is the time, given the league and union will need to negotiate their way out of the existing crisis, for more fundamental change to the league.

The priority before the league can return to some version of normal is health. The finances pale in comparison to player, team and public safety.

Meanwhile, LeBron James has reiterated his love for Liverpool Football Club. The LA Lakers star owns a minority stake in the Reds and has close ties to owners FSG.

He's also represented by Liverpool's new kit manufacturer Nike, and it's expected that the Reds will look to tap into James' popularity in the USA to promote the club in America.

James has been to Anfield several times and has reiterated his affection for the club in a live Instagram Q&A.

Asked who are his favourite footballers, he said: "Favourite soccer players ...

► LeBron James is a big Liverpool fan

I got a few. First of all, every player on Liverpool. Straight up. Every player on Liverpool."

And James would go on to declare his love for French striker Kylian Mbappe, who has been linked with a move from PSG to Anfield.

He added: "Mbappe, Neymar, Cristiano Ronaldo, those guys are legends, I love those guys. Those are just a few of them."

James is one of the greatest basketball players of all time having won three NBA championships, four NBA Most Valuable Player Awards, three NBA Finals MVP Awards, and two Olympic gold medals. He was invited in 2011 by Liverpool's owners Fenway Sports Group to buy a minority 2 percent stake in the club worth $6.5million which by last year ESPN estimated to have risen in value to around $32million. 🌐

Trinidad and Tobago Records Second COVID-19 Death; Total Number of Caribbean Cases Surpass 900

A second Trinidadian has died from the new Coronavirus (COVID-19) that has been responsible for more than 25,000 deaths worldwide.

The Ministry of Health announced today that, "despite the best efforts of the health care professionals, a second national of Trinidad and Tobago who tested positive for COVID-19 has died". The deceased was an elderly man with pre-existing medical complications. A 77-year-old man with underlying medical issues died on Wednesday.

"The Ministry of Health offers its condolences to the family who is, understandably, grieving this loss at this time. Members of the public are urged to respect patient confidentiality and to allow the family the space to cope with the death of their loved one," it said in a statement.

As of this morning, of the 453 samples submitted to the Caribbean Public Health Agency (CARPHA) for testing for COVID-19, 66 tested positive.

Only one COVID-19 patient has so far been discharged, the Ministry said.

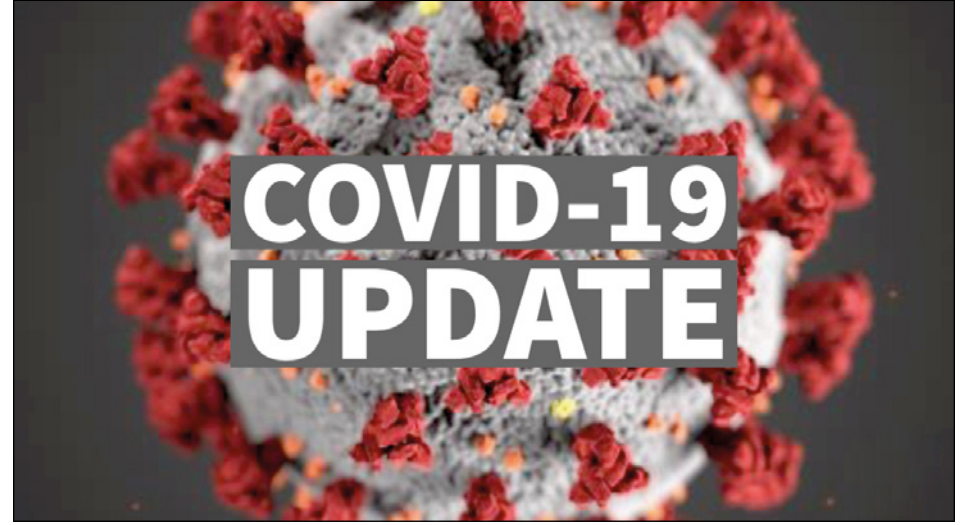

Of the 66 cases, 47 came from the group of nationals who recently returned from a cruise.

Yesterday, Prime Minister Dr Keith Rowley urged residents to stay in their homes as the country seeks to stem the spread of COVID-19.

"We have not declared a state of emergency or any lock down.... From Sunday midnight we will deepen our separation by having non-essential activities forbidden," he said, though stressing that people would be able to go out for essential food and medicine.

As of this morning, the number of COVID-19 cases in the Caribbean had surpassed 900, with more than half of them in the Dominican Republic.

The 927 cases were recorded in: Dominican Republic (488 - including 10 deaths), Venezuela (107 - including 1 death), Cuba (67 - including 2 deaths), Trinidad and Tobago (66 - including 2 deaths), Aruba (28), Jamaica (26 - including 1 death), Barbados (24), United States Virgin Islands (17), Bermuda (15), Dominica (11), Bahamas (9), Haiti (8), Suriname (8), Antigua and Barbuda (7), Curaçao (7 - including 1 death), Grenada (7), Cayman Islands (6 - including 1 death), Guyana (5 - including 1 death), Montserrat (5), St Lucia (3), Anguilla

(2), Belize (2), British Virgin Islands (2), St Kitts and Nevis (2), Sint Maarten (2), Turks and Caicos Islands (2) and St Vincent and the Grenadines (1).

Globally, there were 566,064 cases, including 25,422 deaths. So far, 129,353 people who tested positive have recovered. 🌐

Night Time Curfew To Take Effect in Barbados as COVID-19 Response Plan Enters Stage 3

With the number of cases of the new Coronavirus (COVID-19) in Barbados reaching 24 yesterday, government will go to Parliament today to amend the Emergency Management Act to allow for the declaration of a public health emergency.

As a result, an 8 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew will take effect from tomorrow until April 14 for residents, except those who are part of the essential services.

Prime Minister Mia Mottley, who made the announcement in an address to the nation last night, stated: "To be absolutely clear, the first day when 24-hour movement will be allowed for all persons again, unless further extended, will be Wednesday, the 15th of April."

The Prime Minister identified the essential services as including the uniformed organizations of Barbados; security organizations; the Royal Barbados Police Force; the Fire Service; the Barbados Prison Service; Immigration; Customs officers; the medical and paramedical professions; caregivers; hospital providers; utility companies; telecommunications; media and broadcasting services; the provision of essential transport; the collection, storage, purification and distribution of water; the collection, storage, treatment and disposal of sewage and garbage; and the removal of dead bodies.

There will also be a number of services which will be allowed to operate during the course of the day, within the time frame of 6 a.m. to 8 p.m., but the hours would differ, she disclosed.

After the amendment passes in Parliament, details of these will come in an announcement by Attorney General Dale Marshall, who will be joined by the Minister of Health and Wellness, Lt. Col. Jeffrey Bostic, the COVID-19 Czar, Richard Carter, and the Acting Chief Medical Officer, Dr. Anton Best.

The Prime Minister outlined that businesses which will not be impacted by the new restrictions include grocery stores, pharmacies, restaurants for take-away or drive-through only, shops, commercial bakeries, butcher shops, abattoirs, and gas stations, along with fishermen and farmers.

Some government workers will be working from home, Mottley said, but she gave the assurance that "critical ministries", which will be identified, will remain open to service the public between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m.

She, however, cautioned: "While there will therefore be some activity remaining between 6:00 in the morning and 8:00 at night, we are appealing to all Barbadians to please minimize the number of times you need to go outside. Persons have done well, thus far. We can continue to do well if we hold each other's back up at this very critical time."

Prime Minister Mottley made it clear that the country had enough food supplies and the grocery stores will remain open, therefore there was no need for "any mad rush" as the result of the imposition of the restricted hours for movement. 🌐

St Kitts & Nevis Closes Borders; Country Records First COVID-19 Cases

Commercial flights into St Kitts and Nevis have been banned for two weeks as the government moves to stem the spread of the new Coronavirus (COVID-19), after the country became the last Caribbean Community (CARICOM) country to record cases.

Two nationals - a 21-year-old man and a 57-year-old woman who returned to the island from New York - tested positive for the virus.

Both arrived on March 18 and were tested on March 20 and had been in home quarantine ever since they returned to the twin-island federation.

Under the announced flight restrictions, which will remain in effect until April 7 in the first instance, Medevac or medical emergency flights will be allowed should the need arise.

International air cargo and cargo by seafaring vessels will also be allowed in order to maintain connectivity that enables the Federation to import needed commodities such as food, fuel, medical supplies and equipment.

"Let me reiterate that there is no need for panic and to assure all our citizens that everything is being done to mitigate any impact that we might have, and of course to protect you, our people," Prime Minister Dr Timothy Harris said on Wednesday.

He urged residents not to engage in panic shopping.

"I want to assure you that St Kitts and Nevis has an adequate supply of food at this time. Our suppliers have all indicated that their stocks can last for almost two months and that their cargo ships are coming on a weekly basis," the Prime Minister said.

He said that by the end of this week, a total of 123 shipping containers will have arrived in the country via the various shipping agencies. 🌐
