Ministry of PAHITD's Appointment of Veterinary Board Marks Continued Commitment to Excellence

The Ministry of Planning, Agriculture, Housing, Infrastructure, Transport and Development (PAHITD) is pleased to announce the appointment of the Veterinary Board of the Cayman Islands, a commendable achievement in light of the recent difficulties in finding willing individuals to serve. The appointed members are: Mr. Brian Crichlow (Ex-Officio), Chair Dr. Brendan Lee (Member, Re-appointment) Dr. Olivia Benjamin (Member, Re-appointment) Dr. Tiffany Chisholm (Member, Re-appointment) Mr. Justin Woods (Member, New) Recording Secretary (To be appointed by Acting Director of the Department of Agriculture)

In accordance with the Veterinary Act (1997 Revision), the Veterinary Board's mandate includes the registration of veterinary surgeons and animal health assistants, regulation of the training of animal health assistants, appointment of examiners to conduct examinations in respect of persons applying for registration as veterinary surgeons and animal health assistants, and ensuring the highest standards of professional conduct and ethics in the veterinary field.

Comprised of a diverse group of experienced professionals, the current board was formally notified on August 26,2024 and will serve until August 15,2027. Since their first meeting, all pending applications have been addressed. Several were approved, while some were differed pending receipt of additional information. The letters and certificates for the approved applications are currently being prepared. The Ministry is confident that this board will further strengthen veterinary services in the Cayman Islands. The Ministry extends its gratitude to the members of the Veterinary Board for their service and also thanks the public for their unwavering support and patience during the period of transition. As the new board assumes its duties, the public can look forward to collaboration and progress that will benefit animals, professionals, and citizens alike.

CIMPA ANNOUNCES UPCOMING DEADLINE FOR AWARD NOMINATIONS

The Cayman Islands Marketing Professionals Association (CIMPA) is reminding the community that the deadline for submitting nominations for the CIMPA Awards is fast-approaching.

The 2024 CIMPA Awards honors the Icons + Innovators of Cayman's marketing and creative industries who have demonstrated outstanding creativity, innovation, and excellence in their respective fields.

With a submissions deadline of September 6th, the Awards Gala is a perfect opportunity to recognize and celebrate exceptional talent in these nine categories: Brand of the Year; Website or App of the Year; Video of the Year; Campaign of the Year; Community Impact of the Year; Rising Star of the Year; Creative Professional of the Year; Marketer of the Year; Agency of the Year.

"Our industry is filled with top-notch talent and teams who work their magic behind the scenes to create campaigns that inspire action, craft messages that resonate, and strategies that drive success," said CIMPA Chair, Hollie Whitelocke. "This Awards Gala is our way of acknowledging their hard work and giving them the recognition that they deserve."

Nominations can be made by visiting cimpa.ky/awards and filling out the submission form. The website also provides a description of each award category, along with the judging matrix. An independent panel of overseas industry experts will be judging submissions and each category winner will be announced at the CIMPA Awards Gala on Saturday, October 12th at Hotel Indigo, Grand Cayman.

"We encourage all professionals in the marketing and creative fields to consider nominating their colleagues, mentors, and collaborators and joining us for this celebration to remember in October," added Hollie. "Whether it's a community-minded campaign, an iconic brand, or a rising star, this is your chance to ensure their contributions don't go unnoticed".

Deputy Premier Attends 345Robotics Camp Presentation and Robotics Competition, Urges Continued Support for Youth Innovation Programmes

On Friday 23 August 2024, students from the 345Robotics summer camp delivered an impressive presentation at Signal House, where they displayed the robots they built, participated in an exciting robot competition, and demonstrated their newfound skills in front of proud parents, community members, Ministry officials, and Deputy Premier André Ebanks. The event was led by three of the camp participants - Tehillah, Jamila and Ella - who served as the announcers.

This week of camp was made possible through sponsorship from the Ministry of Investment, Innovation, and Social Development, a supporter of the programme, which seeks to empower young Caymanians with hands-on learning experiences in robotics and technology. This summer, the camp was able to serve more students than ever before - a milestone noted by the 345Robotics Founder, Kendra Okonski.

"We were thrilled to have more students involved this year than ever before," said Okonski. "This programme is about empowerment of young people, through hands-on robotics experiences that are fun, inclusive and accessible. Robotics is about learning by doing, by collaborating, and by solving real-world problems. Our dream is to grow this programme into a year-round initiative and to have robotics teams representing Cayman in the VexIQ Robotics World Championship."

The camp, offered to children ages 8-13, introduced students to the world of robotics while teaching critical skills like teamwork, collaboration, and leadership. Participants built robots capable of picking up blocks and competed in friendly races to showcase their technical abilities. The camp also benefited from the involvement of three young Caymanians who played pivotal roles as mentors:

- Brandon, a brilliant roboticist, guided students through the technical aspects of their projects and learning.
- Ethan, who is heading to the UK to study mechanical engineering at university, offered his expertise and camaraderie.
- Jude, a high school student preparing for his A-levels, provided invaluable support and guidance to his younger peers especially with coding.

These young leaders were crucial to the success of the camp, embodying the very principles of empowerment, innovation, and mentorship that 345Robotics seeks to achieve.

Hon. Deputy Premier André Ebanks, in his remarks, praised the students and mentors while emphasising the Ministry's commitment to social development through innovation.

"The reason we provided sponsorship for this programme is because it encapsulates exactly what the Ministry stands for - investment, innovation, and social development," said Deputy Premier Ebanks. "We invest in this programme to help the next generation innovate and, in doing so, develop them socially. This is the holistic vision of the Ministry, and it's on full display here today by these children. It also touches on a perspective I've mentioned at other events: we shouldn't fear the future of machine learning. Instead, we need to give our children the tools they need to engage with it, so they can be a part of the jobs of the future."

The event concluded with rounds of applause as students showcased their robots, culminating in a series of races that demonstrated their technical prowess and creativity. It was a proud moment—a celebration of what they had accomplished and a glimpse into their future potential.

One of the camp participants, 11-year-old Mason, shared his excitement: "It was so much fun! Thanks to this camp, I learned how to build robots and work together with my team."

As the 345Robotics non-profit and its programmes continue to grow, Founder Kendra Okonski expressed the need for more entities to step forward and support the initiative, ensuring that the programme can expand and offer its benefits to even more young Caymanians. "This is just the beginning," said Okonski. "We have the potential and momentum to reach far more young people, but we need ongoing support to achieve our vision of a year-round programme that empowers even more children to benefit from robotics competition and learning."

The Ministry encourages other organisations and stakeholders to get involved and support this vital initiative, ensuring that Cayman's youth are equipped with the skills and opportunities they need to thrive in the future.

Ministerial Statement on Financial Services Fees Consultation

As the Minister for Financial Services and Commerce, I believe, in light of recent media reports, that the public may find a brief overview of initial proposed 2025 financial services fee changes helpful, as well as a summary of the Caucus/Cabinet approval process.

To provide overall context, when the Cayman Islands Government's 2024/2025 Budget was approved by Parliament in December last year, it included a budget policy statement that gave all Ministries a broad mandate to review all current fees and consider new revenue. This is to assist the Government meet the country's budgetary needs in 2025. It was expected that many fees would be considered that derive from financial services, including Cayman Islands Monetary Authority licence fees--those that might be suitable for an increase, as well as potential new fees.

The Ministry for Financial Services and Commerce is therefore supporting Government's budget policy statement by exploring proposed fee changes. This is being done in consultation with most financial services entities including the Credit Union.

Importantly, no formal action to change fees has been taken to date. The consultation process is designed to give stakeholders input into the recommendations that the Ministry prepares. I will then present analysis and recommendations to Caucus. Per standard procedures, Caucus will then decide which revenue measure recommendations to support.

Caucus' recommendations then advance to Cabinet for formal approval; and again, in line with standard procedures, any necessary amendment bills will be presented, debated and considered by Parliament for passage.

I appreciate all feedback that has been shared to date, including by the Credit Union. I also ask all stakeholders to continue providing feedback so that the Ministry can develop well-informed analysis in the overall best interests of the country.

born ready". Raegan's response to the question was "I believe that education is the corner stone of society, by allowing everyone an equal opportunity to education that opens up job opportunities and allows them to further their careers. In the Cayman Islands, I would love to see the introduction of trade schools so that people who can't go to university can still thrive here and I believe that by introducing these systems we can ensure there is less inequality because everyone deserves a fair chance at an excellent education."

1st runner up, Arin Broderick, 2nd runner up was Brianna Wilson.

All of the contestants answered the question very thoughtfully, so it was a hard call for the judges. The final section - when the contestants dress in beautiful evening gowns and each have to answer the same question, accounts for 50 percent of the weighting in the overall score, was very tense.

Earlier in the evening the contestants wowed the audience with a stunning opening number.

Later the contestants donned swimsuits - each section was carried out with poise and style and dripped with class. There was singing from Rico Rolando and an amazing upcoming singing star, Jhenelle Colquhoun whose voice was incredible. Darrell Dacres had the honour of serenading the new Queen, with the traditional song, "My Caymanian Girl."

There were 6 contestants:

Contestant #1: Arin Broderick, 24, representing George Town;

Contestant #3: Brianna Wilson, 31, representing Bodden Town;

Contestant #4: Raegan Ratty, 22, representing East End

Contestant #5: Tia McLaughlin, 23, representing Bodden Town;

Contestant #6: Tracey Campbell, 19, and Contestant #7: Zhané Rambaran, 27, representing George Town;

National Director, Derri Lee stated in her remarks, " We received 14 applications from potential contestants this year, which is historical. Some of the ladies aspiring to enter the pageant are very proactive and preparing to enter next year.

You know last year the organization was rising from the ashes, but this year we are soaring like an eagle flying toward the hearts of the universe. Look at God's work! "

The opening was choreographed by former Miss Universe Cayman Islands 2020, Mariah Tibbetts.

The National Director thanked major sponsors including the Ministry of Tourism & Ports, Ministry of Border Control & Labour, Compass Media, Radio Cayman, Cayman Airways, Kings Sports Center, Kirk Freeport, Caymanian Times and the Finishing Touch.

Derri Lee's advice to the 6 contestants, "To close I would like to wish each of the contestants the very best of luck. My advice is to never give up on your dreams or yourself. We live in a world with so much uncertainty but if you surround yourselves with positivity, remove the negative no matter how difficult it can be, you stay in peace and confidence knowing there is hope and that you can do all things through Christ." Prizes included scholarships and employment.

Raegan, a 2020 Olympian, breaking barriers by being the tallest gymnast in the world will be representing the Cayman Islands in Mexico on 16 November.

The Committee will begin preparing Raegan for Miss Universe as early as next week.

Snappers Bar and Grill Supports Cruise Tourism and Upcoming Referendum

Snappers Bar and Grill, located at the Royal Watler Cruise Terminal, is proud to announce its strong support for the upcoming referendum on cruise tourism in the Cayman Islands. As a vital part of the local community and economy, Snappers Bar and Grill recognizes the crucial role that cruise tourism plays in sustaining businesses across the island.

"At Snappers Bar and Grill, we've been a beloved spot for both locals and visitors, especially cruise passengers who contribute significantly to our success and the wider Cayman economy," said Kenny Rankin, Managing Director of Snappers Bar and Grill. "We are confident that a 'Yes' vote in the upcoming referendum will secure the future of our tourism industry and benefit businesses throughout the Cayman Islands."

The referendum offers the people of the Cayman Islands an important opportunity to shape the future of cruise tourism - a sector that has been integral to the success of many local enterprises. Supporting cruise tourism is about more than just economic gains; it is about preserving the vibrant community and culture that visitors from around the world come to experience.

"Enhancing our cruise tourism facilities is an investment in the long-term prosperity of our island," Rankin continued. "By voting 'Yes,' we can ensure that the Cayman Islands remain a premier destination for cruise tourists, driving continued growth for local businesses, including restaurants, shops, tour operators, and more."

Snappers Bar and Grill is deeply committed to the community it serves and believes that developing the cruise tourism sector is essential for sustaining the livelihoods of many Caymanians. The upcoming referendum is a chance for the public to voice their opinions on an issue that will have lasting implications for the island.

"We urge all residents to participate in the referendum and to vote 'Yes' in support of cruise tourism. Together, we can build a future where both our local businesses and our tourism industry continue to thrive," concluded Rankin.

About Snappers Bar and Grill: Snappers Bar and Grill is a cherished local establishment, known for its warm hospitality, delicious cuisine, and lively atmosphere. Situated in the heart of the Royal Watler Cruise Terminal, Snappers has been serving both locals and tourists since its inception, offering an authentic taste of Caymanian culture. Committed to quality and community, Snappers Bar and Grill remains a cornerstone of the island's dining and entertainment scene.

Benny Ebanks: 38 Years of Dedication at Cayman Turtle Centre

Bendel "Benny" Ebanks, a name synonymous with dedication at the Cayman Turtle Centre (CTC), has spent nearly four decades working at this historical institution. His journey with CTC began when he was just in his early twenties, making him the youngest team member at the time. Today, Benny holds the distinction of being the longest-serving employee, a testament to his unwavering commitment to the Centre and its mission.

Benny's connection to the Cayman Turtle Centre started long before he officially joined the team. As a child, he frequently accompanied his mother, Ms. Diana Ebanks, who also worked at the Centre. "What drove me to the Centre is my mother," Benny recalls. "She used to bring me here as a little twirp, and eventually, as I got older, they asked me to fill in." Benny's first role was assisting with offloading feed for the containers on an as-needed basis. However, on July 18, 1986, he was called back for a full-time position as a Farm Assistant, marking the beginning of his long and fruitful career.

Benny's journey at CTC has been marked by his versatility and dedication. He began his career as a Farm Assistant, later transitioning to the security team, where he eventually became the Head of Security. Recognizing his commitment, Chief Operating Officer Joey Ebanks once recommended to Chris Jackson—now CEO, but then the Chief Infrastructure Officer—that Benny's years of service warranted further growth opportunities. This led Managing Director Kenneth Hydes to appoint Raymond Hydes, the current Deputy CEO & Chief Business Officer, to oversee the formation of the Tour Operations Department, with Benny as its first recruit. Benny played a crucial role in developing the department and now serves as Tour Guide Supervisor, sharing his extensive knowledge and passion for turtle conservation with visitors from around the world.

As Raymond Hydes noted in a recent celebration, "Benny was my first recruit when I formed the Tours Department 18 years ago, and I am delighted he is a part of my team. His commitment to providing excellent customer service and ensuring every guest has a memorable experience is commendable. Benny's dedication and professionalism continue to inspire us all."

One of Benny's most memorable moments at the Cayman Turtle Centre was his involvement in the conservation efforts for the Kemp's ridley sea turtles. "We were successful in getting the Kemp's ridley sea turtle to reproduce here in captivity, and we were able to send 110 of them back to Mexico in 1999," Benny proudly shares. "Helping those turtles was so important because they are so endangered, and that made me feel good." This achievement remains a highlight of Benny's career, reflecting his deep commitment to wildlife conservation.

Over the years, Benny has witnessed significant changes at the Cayman Turtle Centre, from the relocation of the facility to advancements in animal welfare and an increase in staff. He credits the collaborative nature of the CTC team and the shared passion for turtle conservation as key factors in his enduring love for his work. "I love what I do; it's simple," Benny says. "It's going to be bittersweet when I retire. You might see a tear or two come from my eyes."

Benny's contributions to Cayman Islands tourism have not gone unrecognized. In 2014, he became a Stingray Tourism Award winner in the category of "Long Service". As a prestigious honor bestowed by the Cayman Islands Tourism Association (CITA), this award recognizes individuals who have excelled in tourism operations and made significant contributions to the hospitality industry. Benny's name is frequently mentioned in positive reviews from visitors, many of whom request him specifically for their tours.

Reflecting on his career, Benny offers sage advice for future employees and team members: "Come to work; sometimes you will feel like coming, sometimes you won't. Once you come here, leave personal stuff outside... do your work to the best of your ability. You did your part, and that is the most important thing." He also reminds his colleagues that they are representing a "great, great tourism attraction in Cayman" and encourages them to "make God take care of the rest."

As Benny looks back on his 38 years at Cayman Turtle Centre, his gratitude is evident. "I would like to say thank you to some of the senior staff members that I've worked with over the years: Mr. Chris Jackson, Corrine, Ms. Vicky, Mr. Mac, Stelene, Jodie, Ken Hydes, Kim Critchley, Dr. James Wood, Mr. Atley Ebanks, Joe Parsons, Tim Adams, and more. I appreciate working with them and every person that has spent time working here over the years," Benny says. His deep appreciation for his colleagues and his work is matched only by his faith. "I love my job. Thank God for guiding me so far, for all these years. I hope He continues to guide me."

CTC CEO Chris Jackson also remarked on Benny's invaluable contribution, stating, "Benny's dedication, passion, and commitment to the Cayman Turtle Centre have been truly inspiring. His deep knowledge and connection with our visitors have left a lasting impact on everyone he encounters. We are fortunate to have Benny as part of our team, and his legacy will continue to inspire future generations of CTC staff."

Benny's legacy at Cayman Turtle Centre is one of dedication, passion, and a profound love for what he does. As we celebrate his dedication, it's clear that his impact on the Centre and its visitors will be felt for many years to come.

Public Service Announcement from the Cayman Islands Government Cyber Security Office

Protect Yourself from Scam Phone Calls Targeting Cayman Residents

The Cayman Islands Government Cyber Security Office would like to alert the public to a recent surge in scam phone calls. These scammers are pretending to be representatives from local banks and may ask for your personal information, including account details or card numbers. While these calls may appear to come from Cayman phone numbers, they are likely from overseas criminals attempting to deceive you.

It is important to remember that no legitimate bank will ever request sensitive information such as your account details or PIN over the phone. If you receive a call asking for this kind of information, do not engage. Hang up immediately and contact your bank directly using a trusted phone number, such as the one found on their official website or the back of your bank card.

To protect yourself from these scams:

- Never share personal or financial information over the phone unless you initiated the call and know who you're speaking to.
- Be cautious, even if the call appears to come from a local Cayman number.
- Always verify suspicious calls by directly contacting your bank or financial institution.

For more tips on how to stay safe from scams and protect your personal information, visit gov.ky/cybersafe. The Cayman Islands Government is committed to safeguarding your digital security and providing you with the tools to stay safe online.

Together, we can #KeepCaymanCybersafe.

The Inflation Rate was 1.7% for the Second Quarter of 2024

The second quarter inflation rate was 1.7 percent, and among the main contributors was a 10.3 percent rise in the communication index. The main contributors to the increase in the communication index were a 23.6 percent rise in the cost of telephone and telefax equipment and an 8.8 percent upward movement in telephone and telefax services.

There was also a 9.4 percent upward movement in education, a 3.3 percent rise in housing and utilities, a 1.9 percent increase in health and miscellaneous goods and services, a 1.8 percent rise in food and non-alcoholic beverages, a 1.2 percent increase in furnishings, household equipment, and routine household maintenance, and a 1.0 percent rise in recreation and culture.

The 9.4 percent increase in the education index was largely due to the 13.6 percent rise in the index for secondary education. The index for pre-primary and primary education went up by 9.2 percent, and tertiary education, which went up by 5.2 percent, also contributed to the increase.

A comparison of the second quarter of 2024 with the first quarter of 2024 indicates that the CPI rose by 0.1 percent, as the index for education went up by 3.0 percent, communication by 2.7 percent, miscellaneous goods and services increased by 1.7 percent, and health by 0.3 percent.

OCTOBER 13th

SCAN HERE FOR THE CHALLENGE

The Ministry of Sustainability & Climate Resiliency has launched a Climate & Energy Challenge to raise awareness in the public about climate change in the Cayman Islands and inspire residents to take action in their daily lives.

The public Challenge is open from 2 September to 13 October, 2024 and may be accessed here: [LINK]

Minister for Sustainability & Climate Resiliency, Hon. Katherine Ebanks-Wilks, stated: "The Ministry's Climate & Energy Challenge builds upon the success of a similar version of this challenge hosted for Civil Servants earlier this year. I am proud to bring this exciting awareness initiative to all residents of the Cayman Islands. Climate change has the potential to impact all aspects of life for Cayman Islands residents and we want to ensure our community is empowered with the knowledge of what those impacts may be. I hope this Challenge will encourage the public to participate and to consider opportunities for building up their own resiliency to climate impacts, while offering a chance to win some great prizes. The Ministry is grateful for the support of our private sector sponsors – including Caribbean Utilities Company (CUC), Foster's, and Island Energy – all of which have donated great prizes towards the Challenge."

The Climate & Energy Challenge is in the form of a calendar which contains links to engaging videos and activities, and instructions. The last day of the calendar features a quiz that will test participants' knowledge of climate change and energy.

The Challenge includes categories for homeowners, renters and university students. Participants who score 10 points or more in the final quiz can opt-in to a random prize giveaway.

Acting Chief Officer Troy Jacob said: "The Climate & Energy Challenge is a great opportunity for the community to learn about how climate change is impacting us and what we can do about it as individuals. Every resident of the Cayman Islands has the power and the ability to take climate action in order to help ourselves, our families, homes and communities adapt to the climate risks that we are all facing."

During the Challenge, participants can expect to learn why the climate is changing so quickly, what impacts the Cayman Islands is experiencing now and can expect in the future, and the solutions that could help the Cayman Islands become more resilient. Participants will also learn more about opportunities for addressing climate change and using our energy wisely.

The Ministry is encouraging residents across all three Islands to participate. No prior knowledge about climate change is required to participate in the Challenge.

To learn more about the Climate & Energy Challenge, visit www.gov.ky/sustainability. For inquiries, please email: climate@gov.ky

DEPARTMENT OF EGOVERNMENT'S SUMMER INTERNSHIP PROGRAMME EQUIPS STUDENTS WITH REAL-WORLD DIGITAL SKILLS

The Department of eGovernment has successfully completed its 2024 Summer Internship Programme, which continues to provide university students with hands-on experience in digital government services, bridging the gap between academic learning and practical application.

This year, nine interns participated in the programme, gaining real-world experience in areas such as software development, web design, video production, and software testing. The programme is designed to immerse interns in the vibrant culture of eGov while contributing directly to key projects that are transforming public services in the Cayman Islands.

Suzanne Collins, eGovernment Project Manager and the lead coordinator of the internship programme, highlighted the programme's objectives: "Our primary goal is to give university students real-world experience in software development while integrating them into the eGov culture. We involve interns in meaningful projects that align with their academic backgrounds, providing the mentorship and guidance needed to succeed in the tech industry." Collins also stressed the importance of having interns over the summer, explaining that it allows eGov to invest in the next generation of tech talent in the Cayman Islands. "This programme not only helps students bridge the gap between classroom learning and real-world application, but it also brings fresh perspectives and innovative ideas to our projects. Additionally, it allows us to identify and nurture potential future employees who are already familiar with our culture and processes, which strengthens our talent pipeline for the future."

Throughout the summer, the interns made valuable contributions to several high-impact projects, including the development of web pages and online forms, video creation, and the testing of software for the upcoming Cayman Islands Identification Card. Their work underscores the critical role digital transformation plays in modernising government services to be more efficient, accessible, and user-friendly. Intern Jacqueline Jackson shared how the experience deepened her understanding of digital government services: "My experience here has highlighted how digital solutions can enhance efficiency, transparency, and accessibility in government operations. It's a crucial step towards ensuring that our government is more responsive and capable of meeting the needs of our growing community."

The Summer Internship Programme is part of the Department of eGovernment's broader mission to support the digital transformation of the Cayman Islands. By providing young professionals with hands-on experience, the pro-

Chief Officer of the Ministry of Investment, Innovation, and Social Development, Tamara Ebanks, praised the programme's success, saying, "I want to extend my heartfelt thanks to the eGovernment team for their dedication in mentoring these talented interns. Their guidance and expertise have been invaluable. I also want to commend the interns for their hard work and enthusiasm. Their contributions are helping to shape the future of public service in the Cayman Islands, and I am confident they will continue to excel as they pursue their careers in digital technology."

As the programme continues to grow, the Department of eGovernment looks forward to further expanding its efforts to engage and develop future tech talent in the Cayman Islands. POLICE NEWS

Police warn of fraudulent online ads for Vehicle sales

Over the past few weeks the RCIPS has received multiple reports of persons falling victim to fraudulent classified online ads of vehicles for sale, posted on a local platform.

When potential victims contact the seller listed on one of these ads, they are advised that they need to pay a deposit for the vehicle. However, once they do so, the scammers cease all contact with the victim, who never receives the vehicle. The ads are also deleted immediately after contact is made.

The ads were posted under the name Simplicity Leasing or Simplicity Lease-To-Own. These incidents are under investigation and a suspect is being sought. The management of the platform is working closely with authorities to investigate and prevent further incidents, and the offending accounts have been banned from the site.

Police are also investigating an incident where a vehicle was successfully purchased from a seller. However, the seller concealed the fact that the vehicle had a lien on it, and the vehicle was subsequently repossessed from the victim.

The public are being advised to be cautious regarding these fraudulent ads. For vehicle purchases, it is best to view the vehicle before paying any money. Proceed with caution if there is any resistance from the seller in allowing you to do so.

Anyone who believes they may have been a victim of this, or any other scam, is asked to contact police at 949-4222, your local police station, or the RCIPS Financial Crime Investigation Unit at RCIPS.FCU@rcips.ky.

Reports of Scammers Targeting Local Banking Customers Continue

RCIPS continues to receive multiple reports of scammers calling local banking customers claiming to be from a variety of organisations including, banks, credit card and money transfer companies, and most recently, RCIPS.

The RCIPS Financial Crime Unit is seeing an escalation in reports of scams at present, and advises the community that there appears to be focused effort from foreign actors to target Cayman.

Its important local banking customers are on their guard and don't fall victim.

RCIPS reminds the community to be alert to the various ways scammers may make an approach. If any organization makes contact via email or phone requesting your personal details, probe further with questions, or tell the caller that you will check with the organization in question directly before proceeding.

Police Investigate Collision in North Side

Shortly before 6:00PM on Saturday, 31 August, officers responded to a report of a four-vehicle collision with injuries on Frank Sound Road, North Side. Police, along with Fire Officers and EMS, attended the location. Ten victims were transported to the hospital by ambulance as well as private vehicles. Eight have since been released and two remain in hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

The roadway was temporarily closed following the collision but has since been reopened. The matter is currently under investigation by the Traffic & Roads Policing Unit.

RCIPS Investigates Sudden Death Incident in East End

At approximately 9:40PM on Sunday 25 August, police and other emergency services were dispatched by the 9-1-1 Communication Centre to a report of a Sudden Death incident that took place outside a residence located off of John McLean Drive.

A 50-year-old-man of East End who has now been formally identified as Mark Lee Conolly, was transported to the hospital by ambulance where he was seen by the attending physician and pronounced deceased.

Investigations into the circumstances of his passing are on-going.

The RCIPS wishes to extend sincere condolences to his family at this time.
